From the Ministry Team

Dear Brothers and Sisters

This edition was put together in the days immediately before and after COVID 19 reshaped so much of how we live and work. Only this article and pages 6, 7 and 14 are written this week.

I haven't changed the rest, because it came from the work of our editor and friend, David Francombe, who chaired the meeting on 5th March which decided the articles, content and shape of this edition. All of us were devastated when we discovered on 15th March that he had died. His work on this magazine for so many years was a wonderful service, as was his leading of the concerts programme, which he built up from nothing to a beautiful glossy booklet with events booked every week of the year. He no longer had to look for performers, because they came to him, and every concert he was there, on the door, giving out programmes and welcoming people. His commitment to the choir was absolute, and he loved both the act of worship and the skill of music which it combines. The family of the choir, I know, misses him deeply. But above all this, he was a faithful Christian, with a deep and strong love of God, and trust in God. And he was a friend.

I confess that when I heard, 10 minutes before the service on 15th March, I went and wept in the churchyard before the service began. This edition is a tribute to David, not in how much it speaks of him, but in its existence. So much else happened that week, which was the last time we were all together. It held joy—it was Mothering Sunday, it marked a change—we said farewell to our curate, Sam as she moved to her new ministry in Portsmouth, and it held sorrow, as we mourned David. The church has always been, and always will be, a place which can hold our joys and our sorrows, change and continuity, in the presence, the peace and the love of God.

Your Vicar, Will

From the Editors

It is difficult at the moment to write about anything topical without mentioning the coronavirus. This new disease with its terrifyingly speedy spread throughout the world heads the media news every day and is in the forefront of our minds; we don't know what to do for the best. One good outcome may be that all countries and nations will put aside self-centred preoccupations and work, across all boundaries, together.

On a happier note, I recently visited a care home in the north of the country where a very dear friend for sixty-five years is now living. Care homes do not always have good publicity; we hear too often of shortages of money and of good, well-qualified staff. But I have a different tale to tell; my dear friend has a pleasant room on the ground floor overlooking a small garden, good catering and excellent, skilled and kind carers whom she likes very much. I was able to visit her at any hour over the five days I was there, even early in the morning and I too received much kindness and endless cups of coffee. I came away greatly relieved in my mind.

We are very lucky in my opinion in this country, generally speaking, with our NHS and our care home personnel; we should count our blessings as well as supporting, in any way we can, the international response to the current crisis.

Saint of the Month: Pandita Ramabai Sarasvati

23rd April 1858 – 5th April 1922

The person whose day of remembrance we celebrate this month is Pandita Ramabai who was an Indian social reformer and a pioneer in the education and emancipation of women in India. In the wake of International Women's Day in early March it is good to be able to mark the lifetime and achievements of this woman.

Pandita and Sarasvati are both honorary titles which were conferred in 1878 on this notable woman by the University of Calcutta in recognition of her extensive knowledge of various Sanskrit works. She was born Rama Dongre into a very scholarly family. Her father, a Sanskrit scholar taught Rama and her brother Srinivas, Sanskrit at home and at an early age she was able to recite long passages of the Sanskrit scripture by heart which earned her great respect when she was able to travel extensively in India reciting these scriptures in places where universal literacy was unknown.

She was orphaned at the age of 16 during the Great Famine so it was a blessing that her fame as a Sanskrit scholar had by this time reached the University of Calcutta where she was invited to give lectures and was presented with a copy of the Vedas, the most sacred of all Hindu scriptures. Sadly, as well as losing her father, Rama's brother, Srinivas, also died in 1880. In that same year Rama married Bipin Medhvi, a Bengali lawyer. Bipin was a Bengali Kyastha, which means he was from a different caste from Rama. Their marriage was therefore inter-caste and was frowned on in their culture. They were married in a civil ceremony and were blessed with a daughter, Manorama, but Rama was widowed when Bipin died after only two years of

Rama moved to Pune where she founded the Arya Women's Society whose aim was to combat the oppression of child marriage and to promote women's education. In 1882 she was invited to address a commission on education appointed by the government of India. She is remembered for declaring fervently, "In ninety nine cases out of a hundred the educated men of this country are opposed to female education and the proper position of women. If they observe the slightest fault, they magnify the grain of mustard seed into a mountain, and try to ruin the character of a woman." She advocated that women teachers, school inspectors and doctors should be trained to help other women. Her words created such a sensation that Queen Victoria heard of her and she was invited to Britain to commence medical training herself.

Saint of the Month

In 1883 she started her medical training in London and during her time in London she became a Christian. She was delighted to travel to the USA in 1886 for the graduation of the first female Indian doctor. She remained in the USA for two years lecturing throughout the USA and Canada and translating textbooks. After her return to India another severe famine struck and she toured villages with a caravan of bullock carts and rescued thousands of outcast children, child widows, orphans and destitute women and established for them the Mukti Mission which is still in existence today. "Mukti" means freedom, liberation and salvation.

Mara was a learned woman knowing seven languages. She translated the Bible into her own mother tongue – Marathi – from the original Hebrew and Greek. She made sure her own daughter was well educated at Bombay University and in the USA and later encouraged her to become Principal of the Christian High School at Gulbarga. Rama had planned that her daughter would take over the ministry of the Mukti Mission from her but Manorama died in 1921 and worn out with work and sadness Rama herself died in 1922. She is remembered in the church's calendar on 30th April.

Churchyard Upkeep

Our happy band of helpers, who often join Refresh for a coffee break, have been working enthusiastically in the following ways:

Maintenance: ongoing

- Sweeping paths and the drive
- Gathering fallen leaves
- Pruning, dead heading, weeding borders, etc.
- Church Hall paths and borders.

Achieved this year:

- A large tree stump has been levelled
- Privet hedge removed
- Construction of ramp for council mowing

Special news:

Petersfield in Bloom. Peter Fisher accepted on behalf of St Peter's the Silver Award for Category 11 for our churchyard. We celebrated this with Will at Cloisters.

New volunteers are most welcome if they can spare an hour or two.

Peter Fisher

As a closed churchyard the council kindly cuts the grass, removes the garden waste and, this year, reduced the pyracantha hedge.

What's new in Buriton this month?

Buriton Post Office

We regret that, due to the coronavirus outbreak, the Friday morning Post Office is suspended until further notice.

SEWARD ROOM

During the coronavirus outbreak we regret it will not be possible to hire the Seward Room at Mary's Church for any purpose. Enquiries for future use of the room may still be made to:

We are here to worship God, welcome all and grow together in faith and love

Buriton News

We managed to have two of our Lent Speaking Faith series before coronavirus prevented further sessions. Moya Cozens and Vanessa Dowse both shared their faith story, speaking of the way that their faith had impacted on their lives. It is hoped to continue the series when things return to normal!

It was with great sadness that we closed the church for the duration of the present crisis, but it's a good way of reminding ourselves that our worship does not depend on a building. Along with the rest of the Church we are discovering new ways of worshipping together, as well as caring for each other pastorally and being Christ to others from our homes!

In Buriton, the Parish Council, St Mary's church, Neighbourcare Buriton and the local pub have come together to ensure that food, shopping and other services were made available for those unable to get out. It was heart-warming to see how people came together in this crisis. Our school is very much in our prayers as they continue to provide care for the few children of essential workers during the school day.

Our new website www.stmarysburiton.church has certainly come into its own. Everyone is working very hard to make sure we make best use of the available technology (bearing in mind that getting a signal is difficult here!)

The way we celebrate Easter will be very different this year but Our Lord is still Risen (Alleluia!) and we continue to live in the light of that.

What's happening in Petersfield?

So much planning and hard work went into creating the system described here; the Gospel is being put into action by so many people, many of whom are part of the Church in Petersfield, and all of whom have a deep love for humankind, and a determination to serve them as best they can.

The life of the church continues, but in a different way. Prayers are still said, at 9am and 5pm, but in many different homes, rather than together in the church.

Our life together is now chiefly online— and I hope you've been able to be part of the services on the website and on facebook.

I've had some trouble with the website video, so facebook is the best way to take part. You don't have to be 'on facebook', just go to facebook on your computer and type in 'St Peters Petersfield'

All the services and meditations are on the website as well.

Petersfield News

So very much news, and so very much going on. In the early days of the lockdown, the team at St Peter's worked hard to make sure that nobody was stuck at home without food or prescriptions. We then worked with other organisations coming together to create a joined up system of support across the whole town.

As this is now in place, we continue to support those who have asked for our help, and to offer pastoral care, support and constant prayer.

Resources to help those in the town now include:

Age concern are working with Churcher's College, who have wonderfully allowed their kitchens to be used to make free hot meals for those who need them. These are delivered by age concern twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Age concern are also coordinating prescription collections.

A new group, Petersfield Corona Network, has over 300 volunteers, and pairs a volunteer with someone needing regular food or medicine deliveries.

If you need help from any of these, there is a new central number:

01730 779 296

Petersfield Food bank is continuing to give food, but on a much larger scale, making use of the generosity of individuals and the supermarkets. Food, including the new Waitrose food boxes, can be collected from the Salvation Army from 9:30 to 11:30am. Donations can be taken to the Methodist church on Mondays or Wednesdays from 10-12, or at the Co-op in Moggs Mead.

Support for people sleeping rough is supplied by the charity 'Two Saints', who can be contacted on www.streetlink.org.uk

We're sending out regular e-mails— an electronic 'cross keys'. If you're not getting it, please tell me.

From Chris & Suzy Wilson

Greetings from Northern Ireland. Over the last few years, we've felt it has been helpful to start these emails with giving thanks. It's a habit that is especially helpful in tough times. As ever, there's lots that we are thankful for right now. We're grateful that we were always scheduled to be in the UK at this time; it would have been much more stressful to be in Gambella having to decide whether or not to follow the government advice to come home. We're also thankful that we managed to get a lot done in February before the disruption started: we managed to speak at six of our supporting churches and spend time with our families and many of our closest friends. We're also very thankful that we've been able to rent a little cottage on a farm in Northern Ireland: it's nice to have our own space at this time and not be an additional burden on either of our families.

Please join us in praying for:

- Coronavirus in the UK, Ethiopia, and all over the world. In particular, for God to strengthen and encourage those who are working on the front-lines. That those who are ill, anxious, fearful and lonely would know the comforting presence of their heavenly Father. And also that this whole experience would soften the hearts of the rich towards their fellow human beings who live their entire lives with a health-care system that is far below the nightmare scenario that we are all trying hard to avoid.

- Micah, our youngest child. He has struggled the most with the transition, and his response, amongst other things is to have regular tantrums. It is very tiring for both him, and us, and the older two are a little frustrated.
- Wisdom and provision as we look ahead. We had intended to spend from May to July of our home-leave in Yorkshire, where we have several supporting churches and lots of friends. We had also planned to return to Ethiopia in July August. Obviously, we now don't have a clue whether either of these plans will be possible/sensible. Pray for wisdom for us and for God's continued provision of rest.
- All in Gambella. Pray for the students who, starting in early March, are still out running evangelistic placements. We have seen God do wonderful things during this time in previous years. Pray for God to be at work through the students and their ministry.
- Pray for Bishop Rajan who is trying to return from India to Ethiopia. Pray for the college leadership as we try to discern the right way to move forward in the midst of the coronavirus chaos.

As ever thanks for all your support and prayers. Please be assured that we are also praying for all, and will continue to do so over the next month.

Have you met?

Rose Case

Although she was born in the far-flung island of Borneo, Rose has been a native of Petersfield since 1967. During those years, however, as an Army wife, Rose has had to leave her home here to live in many countries of the world. With her husband Tony, she has lived in Singapore, Hong Kong, Germany, Canada and Northern Ireland as well as in the U.K. During those years Rose has had three sons, Clive – who is now a priest; Nick – who now lives in Hong Kong and Redvers, who is a teacher. Rose recalls how when she first came to worship at St. Peter's every single woman at the service wore both hat and gloves! She also likes to recall that her great-grand father was a Christian priest.

Rose and Tony retired to Petersfield and enjoyed some good years here before, sadly, Tony died in June last year. Rose has six grandchildren who she looks forward to seeing and she also very much enjoys cooking and gardening. She is a regular at the 9.30 Sunday morning service in St. Peter's and is also a faithful supporter of the "Refresh" café in St. Peter's on a Thursday morning.

Sheila Gadd

Sheila is a great rambler and often writes in the Petersfield Post about the walking adventures of the Petersfield Ramblers group. She says that by taking long walks since she moved to Petersfield she has "learned the land" – a lovely phrase expressing quite poetically the way in which this hobby has enabled her to become intimately acquainted with footpaths and byways in the countryside.

Sheila was born in Somerset near the Somerset Levels. She met and married Mike, her husband, in Taunton in Somerset and they later made their home in Egham in Surrey. They have two children – Ian and Karen and four grandchildren. For many years Mike worked for Ferrari and maybe this encouraged a love of travel in them both. They have visited France, Spain and Italy towing their caravan and more recently have acquired a motorhome in which they also love exploring the remoter parts of the UK.

Sheila has had an interesting and varied career herself mainly in secretarial roles. One post that she found especially interesting and meaningful was with The American School in Thorpe in Surrey. Sheila was involved with this boarding and day school for twelve years. The school followed the American and IB curriculum and was a truly international school.

Sheila and Mike moved to Petersfield in 2009 after getting to know the town through their daughter who lived here. Sheila loves living in Petersfield and had thrown herself with great enthusiasm into a host of activities such as swimming, singing with a choir, U3A, Sheet W.I, Home Start, rambling and, of course, regular attendance at St. Peter's.

Reflections on my time at St Peter's: the Revd Dr Sam Cullen

My friends,

I write this reflection whilst sat at a farmhouse table in a fine establishment - the café at Durleigh Marsh. It overlooks some of the beautiful countryside surrounding Petersfield. And I feel so lucky and happy. Lucky to have had all this natural beauty on my doorstep for over two and a half years. And happy to have been your Curate.

I have frequently said to Will that I am quite possibly the happiest curate in the whole Church of England. Not all curacies go well. I have friends and colleagues who needed to move on after six months or less because their curacies became unbearable and they themselves became miserable and unable to flourish.

I have been enabled to flourish. For that I am very thankful. Firstly I am thankful to Will, who has been, and is, an excellent and outstanding Training Incumbent. I cannot emphasise this enough. Will has provided such a good environment of support and challenge to enable that growth to happen. To enable me to learn at a pace that suits. And the reason I've been 'signed off' a little bit early is not due to boredom or misery but because I have been properly equipped by the best. And this puts me in a strong position to become a good Training Incumbent in the future. And that is good news for the whole church.

I have been able to flourish because of the support given by so many people. From Churchwardens and Choir members to Servers, Cleaners and Head Teachers, Bell Ringers, Vergers and Sacristans. The Ministry Team at St Peter's and at Buriton. Those who sit with an encouraging smile on their face. And those who are kind.

What will I miss? I will miss breaking bread with you. I will miss the Pastoral Team and ministry. I will miss conversations in church, in your homes and sometimes by your hospital beds. I will miss the Schools Outreach, especially the children at the Infant School and all their little faces. I will miss services in Buriton and walks to the Chalk Pit afterwards. And who could forget Refresh and its wonderful ministry and the super team who keep it going.

I have been very sad about leaving. But I go on from here confident in what God is calling me to. Equipped and ready for the next phase. It is comforting to know we are not that far away and we can come back and say hello every now and again. So it's bye for now but not forever,

May the road rise up to meet you.

May the wind always be at your back.

May the sun shine warm upon your face, and rains fall soft upon your fields (though maybe we've had enough of that),

And until we meet again,

May God hold you in the palm of His hand.

Slán go fóill,

Sam

St Peter's: the Eco-Church

Churchgoers at St Peter's Church in Petersfield are enjoying the benefits of going greener – they are seeing reduced energy bills alongside having cleaner consciences.

Worshippers there decided to make environmental improvements to the church building in 2016. They put 27 solar panels on their south-facing roof, helping to generate the energy they need to keep the church heated and lit.

They also replaced all their church light bulbs with dimmable LED lights. Alongside their new, highly-efficient boilers, that meant the church's heating and electricity bills have gone from £8,500 in 2016 down to £1,750. That's despite the fact that they keep the church open, lit and heated at a steady temperature every day from 9am until 5:30pm.

And it's before they get around £600 a year back for the electricity they generate via their solar panels – which can't be seen from the ground.

We're highlighting what they've done as part of the focus on the environment during Lent 2020. Both our diocese and the national Church of England are sharing reflections on God's creation and practical actions to combat climate change during this season, while the Bishop's Lent Appeal 2020 is allowing us to donate money to global and local environmental charities. Download a list of practical actions you can take during Lent from this page.

St Peter's Church in Petersfield has also tried to make the churchyard an eco-space by putting up owl boxes and looking after trees.

They've insulated the parish office, which has helped to keep the administration team more comfortable, and are putting in double-glazing. Our diocese also double-glazed the vicarage recently, all of which will save on energy bills too.

The church makes sure that it uses starch cups that biodegrade at church fetes and events – rather than plastic ones. And they are a Fairtrade church as well, meaning that they buy products that help suppliers in developing countries. The church has been given a bronze Eco-Church Award by the Christian environmental charity A Rocha.

It operates the awards scheme to encourage churches to care for creation as an integral part of loving their neighbours and following God faithfully.

The vicar, Canon Will Hughes, said: "Going green in St Peter's has not cost us a great deal in terms of changing what we do, day by day, nor in terms of money apart from the initial investment in solar panels and bulbs. It has just meant thinking about what we do and finding the most environmentally responsible way of doing it. Now the environment wins, the church wins and our finances win. I can't think why everyone doesn't do it!"

Reach Conference 2019

“Been there, done that, got the T-shirt”. Been to an evangelistic Bible college, done the mission bit in the north, east and west of England, have the T-shirt, or did have before it wound up in a recycle bin. Was REACH going to be another exercise in telling us how and what we should be doing as a Christian church? The answer was “No”. In the words of the advertising it was to “...inspire and equip us to express God’s generous love for people beyond the current reach of our congregations.” Guest speakers were Ed Olsworth-Peter, National Pioneer Development Officer, Bishop Ric Thorpe, Bishop of Islington and the Rev. Ali Boulton, SCBA Pioneer Enabler. We were informed there is practical and financial help (Diocese will match funds raised by individual churches) within our Diocese.

We are asked to make disciples of all nations, but as a Christian community what are our aims and motives? What is more important? Expressing God’s love just where we are or building new Christian communities. Jesus said the greatest commandment is to love God and the second is like it, love your neighbour.

Melanie Evans, Reader at St Peter’s

Our society, climate and the world, are constantly changing, which means the needs of humanity are also changing. I went to the Conference with knowledge of the tremendous work St. Peter’s and the Petersfield Area Churches Together have done in the past and are still doing in the present to meet those needs, both locally, nationally and internationally. We are all doing our bit, meeting the needs of different people, in different ways. Our capabilities, both in financial and human resources limit what we and many other churches can do. We also have to give thanks for the work our local supermarkets, retailers, businesses and individuals undertake to meet the needs of various charities and organisations within our locality.

What can we do in St. Peter’s? As a starting point we need to pray and listen to see where God’s Holy Spirit may be leading us and this may take time. We were encouraged to walk our own streets to see where the needs are. Finally, not to rush into new projects without doing our own basic groundwork to see whether the venture is sustainable and viable.

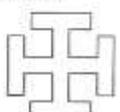

Melanie attended the REACH Pioneer & Church Planting Conference on 9 – 10 October 2019

"Twenty years, sir, but never an enemy like this."

"Such nonsense will not save you." Pilate spat the

"Sir," I replied, "I know tomorrow I must die.
What do I gain by lies? Question the others.

They'll say the same: "We're used to fighting men, not powers of Hell – or of the gods, maybe."

Caiaphas leaned forward, his face severe, his speech

"You saw the body coming from the tomb?"

"We have to stop this resurrection tale.

If this should spread, it is a menace to us all."

Services

We're sending out a weekly newsletter– if you're not getting it, please let me know so that I can add you to the list.

I am aching to open the church again, for visits, for peace, for prayer. I don't know when we'll be able to worship together and start Refresh again, but I hope and pray it will be soon.

We are a family, and it hurts not to be able to meet, but we can still talk. Please phone me, and your friends and those you know. We need each other just as much as ever– maybe more. And if you know anyone who needs help, please share it.

But above all we pray for each other. Pray for me, and I am praying for you. Pray for an end to this disease, and for those working through this difficult time. There is no more powerful thing we can do.

Your Vicar– Will
